ANTS OR MONKEYS -Lately Sir John Lubbock has been considering the ant family, and after a protracted investigation de clares that "anthropoid apes" must yield the second place in the order beneath man, or his friends, the "ants," must be placed there. "When we consider the habits of ants," says he, "their social organization, large communities, elaborate habitations, their roadways, their possession of domestic animals, and even in some cases of slaves, it must be admitted that they have a fair claim to rank next to man in these theories, it now appears that in intelligence, which is the crowning glory and special attribute of mankind, the monkey must give place to the ant. Many years ago one wise man suggested that some of the gentlemen of leisure, who found time hanging heavily on their hands, would do well to "go to the ant" and "consider her ways and be wise." It seems now that the advice contains more philosophy than has generally been accredited to it.

RELIGIOUS NOTES The Archbishop of Quebec is exceptionally severe, as is well known, on the follies of society and exigencies of fashion, more especially those relating to the toilet of the weaker sex. To lukewarm Catholics, who are inclined to view with disfavor the more Ultramontane doctrines of the Church, the Archbishop read a severe lesson a few Sundays ago in a mandement, read in all the Roman Catholic churches of the Province, which prohibits the faithful from entering too freely into the amenities of life with Protestants: from attending Protestant churches and Protestant mar riages, from acting as pall bearers at the Protestant funerals, or, in fact, from attending Protestant funerals. John T. Betts, of London, a Baptist layman, has published translations of some of the tracts by Juan de Valdes, the Spanish Protestant writer of the sixteenth century, recently discovered by Professor Boehmer among the collected papers of the Emperor Maximilian in the Palatine Library at Vienna. Mr. Betts was at one time a member of Dr. Brock's church and the intimate friend and helper of Benjamin Wiffen, a Quaker, who gave .twenty years of labor, in concert with his Spanish friend Usoz y Rio, to the recovery of the works of Spanish Protestants. The irrepressible and irresponsible Ship-Congregationalist is informed has varied his public performances recent-ly, by preaching in a Virginia church. He is reported to have shown great facility in the use of language, especially of slang, a gift in which he certainly excels. He is a representative of a class who exercise similar gifts a little less than 2,000 years ago. The mission field of the Moravian Church comprises at the present time sixteen provinces, with over 100 stations and 1,800 nissionaries. They have 215 schools, with about 15,000 pupils, and a total of nearly 75,000 converts from among the heathen. All this work is carried on and supported by a church which has scarcely 20,000 communicant members at home. Some years ago Mrs. Anna Richmond placed in the hands of Henry P. Kidder a sum of money, of which $500 was to be paid every year to support a professor in the ancient Unitarian College at Klausen-

Lest, however, any one should misunderstand our own attide, we will premise that we fully concede read, and the comments ran with the reading. The reading was first of the word of the Lord coming to Jonah the right of the church-going element in the community to pursue its observance of Sun-day without interruption or molestation, and commanding him to go to Nineveh and "cry against it" because of its wickedness. Jonah, however, "rose up to flee unto Tarshish from we admit that the playing of bands by pro the presence of the Lord, and went down to time of service is not warrantable. If, however, anything of this kind happened during the recent Turn Bezirk celebration, it was ppa ; and he found a ship going to Tarshish," and in that he went from the presence of the Lord. This act is typical of men of the result of a mistake, for, in accordance with our principles, orders had been given for the band to cease playing whenever a this day who flee from the face of duty. "But the Lord sent out a great wind unto the sea, and there was a mighty tempest." The Lord sent the wind. For His purposes, church was approached, and the only instance in which this order was infringed is explain-able by the circumstance that the hour was to work out His great ends, He sent the wind. Throughout the history of the matter the Throughout the history of the matter the Lord was manifest in it, and in it His wisdom so early as to induce the belief that services had not yet begun. So much by way of pre-face, since we do not wish our fellow-citizens was seen. "The mariners were afraid, and cried every man unto his God." Jonah was to think that we have any disposition to invade the rights of others, our object being asked to call upon his God, and then the mariners cast their lots to know "for whence

We think this is both fair and practical, for of course if our practices are demoralizing they must have demoralized us, and if they have done so it must be perfectly easy to de-monstrate the moral superiority of church discipline and training. Considering the ar-rogance and self-sufficiency of your attitude, however, we have been much surprised te find that according to your own admission you have no influence upon your flocks on any other day than Sunday. For you say that our "practices" draw off many, espe-cially the young, "from all the influences cal-culated to make good and safe citizens on the years seen the man or the occasion before which he feared to utter God's word as given him. He was uninfluenced by flattery or fear, by appeals or applause. For himself the speaker liked to hear men speak out to act on them." CALIFORNIA. Wife Murder and Attempted Suicide.

CHICO, June 24th .- A most fiendish and rutal murder was perpetrated here about 9 'clock to-night. Herr Smidt and wife came here from Stockton about four weeks ago, and opened a saloon on Main street, called the "Opera," Family quarrels have been numerous, and last week Mrs. Smidt moved numerous, and last week Mrs. Sinid moved into the rear of the saloon, as she says, to guard her property, as she was about to sell her property, including a valuable piano. That night, as he was shamefully beating one of the small children, she interfered, when he arned on her and brutally assaulted her, when she ran into the street screaming, whe the City Marshal appeared and took him into custody. She then began proceedings to ob-tain a divorce, and he aggreeing to allow her to have it, she refused to prosecute him if he would leave her, which he agreed to do. He was released, agreeing to leave town. He has not been seen around until to-night about 9 o'clock, when he entered the saloon, which she was still running, with a pistol in his hand, and began to shoot at his wife, who was sitting with her back to him. The first shot took effect in the back below the shoulders, and the other entering her neck below and to the left of the left ear, ning out in her forehead, causing death intantly. The murderer then ran and was not vertaken until he got several blocks from he scene of the murder, where he was cap-ured by officer Carl Goodrich. Upon taking midt to the jail it was discovered that he had taken poison. A doctor was called and with the aid of a stomach pump revived him. The wife leaves four small children, the oldest 7 years and the youngest about 7 months Mrs. Smidt was the widow of Professor De Eds. of Stockton, who was the father of all married but a short time.

A Mining Superintendent Swept to Death Through a Tunnel. NEVADA, June 24th.—At Blue Tent, this forenoon, G. S. Powers, Superintendent of the Blue Tent Mining Company, together with J. D. Penders and a man named Wiseman, were engaged in clearing what is known as the Old Tunnel. The water had been turned off at the junction, and was running through the new tunnel. While the men were at work the pipe burst at the junction, and the entire volume of 2,400 inches swept down toward the tunnel. Penders heard the coaring sound of the advancing flood, and giving the alarm to the others, he clambered a place of safety, but before Powers and the dumps, and into the Yuba river, where he was found this afternoon, near Edwards' Bridge. Deceased was one of the prominent men of Nevada county, a leading member of the Masonic fraternity. He was a native of Maine, aged about 48 years, and leaves a wife and family in the East.

The flume is over 1,200 feet long. Before reaching the South Yuba there are in it four "dumps" or abrupt drops of from twenty feet to seventy-five. There were 2,400 inches f water running in the flume yesterday. Geo. S. Powers is one of the best known gravel miners in the country, having been engaged here in that occupation for many years. He formerly operated at You Bet, coming here three years ago to take charge of the Blue Tent mine. His wife and five children are now in Maine, where they have been for saveral months. The Red House finds that after ten years' of successful business in the line of BOOTS and SHOES, that their Boot and Shoe Department is to-day second to none, and that their strict attention to business has enabled them to obtain all the facilities known to the trade. They have become acquainted with, and are to-day doing business with the largest and best Eastern manufactories, and are able to sel the most meritorious goods at the very lowest prices, as will be seen by a few of the following named lines, which we constantly carry in stock:
